MLT AIKINS

WESTERN CANADA'S LAW FIRM

PROGRAM

The legal landscape relating to workplace safety law is constantly evolving and changing. Inspection and enforcement activities are increasing – and are serious matters for your organization. Do you know your rights if an incident occurs and the regulators are asking to interview your employees? Does your organization know how to properly navigate prime contractor responsibilities? Is your drug and alcohol policy ready for pending changes to Canada’s marijuana laws? Join us and we will help you get prepared.

On the agenda:

- Examine Bill 30 changes to Alberta’s Occupational Health and Safety Act and Workers’ Compensation Act
- Learn about Pending Changes to Liability of Supervisors, Owners, Service Providers, Self-Employed Persons and Temporary Staffing Agencies
- Update on Prime Contractor Law and Best Practices
- Survey Recent Key OHS Legal Decisions
- Discuss Statutory Investigations, Privileged Investigations and Interviews
- Get the latest on Drug and Alcohol Testing and Medical Marijuana Policies

SPEAKERS

John Agioritis represents clients on all types of criminal matters and regulatory infractions, including federal and provincial occupational health and safety, environmental legislation and tax legislation. He has assisted employers of all sizes – from small closely held companies to large, publicly traded multinational international entities in various industries – navigate their way through occupational health and safety investigations and prosecutions. John also provides proactive advice on due diligence measures designed to meet and exceed occupational health and safety obligations. He has appeared before the Saskatchewan Provincial Court, the Saskatchewan Court of Queen’s Bench and the Court of Appeal for Saskatchewan.

Michael Tochor, Q.C. has extensive involvement in administrative and public law matters. He has acted on behalf of various provincial licensing and regulatory bodies and for a number of clients appearing before professional and administrative tribunals. A significant part of his practice involves representing clients on investigations and charges under The Occupational Health and Safety Act.

Curtis Unfried has advised and defended clients on a wide range of regulatory fronts, including Occupational Health & Safety / Workplace Safety & Health Acts, the Criminal Code, the Pharmaceutical Act (Manitoba), the Food and Drugs Act (Canada), the Fisheries Act (Canada), the Metal Mining Effluent Regulations (Canada), the Forest Act, the Motor Vehicle Transport Act and The Manitoba Liquor and Lotteries Corporation Act and Liquor and Gaming Control Act. Although his practice is based in the City of Winnipeg, Curtis has acted for clients in Ontario and in Western Canada.

Scott Masson is a corporate and commercial lawyer who focuses in the areas of construction, procurement and real estate. Scott frequently assists clients in a variety of industries with the planning, development, drafting and negotiation of contracts for construction projects and the procurement of goods and services (including professional and design services). He also helps a variety of public sector and private clients with developing purchasing documents including, requests for proposals, requests for quotations, tenders, resulting contract documentation and other procurement documents.

Jean Torrens acts as a strategic partner with human resources and business leaders to manage complex legal situations involving employees and unions. She has extensive experience acting for management in conducting collective bargaining, advising on discipline and terminations, navigating challenging human rights and harassment situations, and defending employers facing litigation. She helps employers prepare proactively for medical and legalized recreational marijuana, and supports employers responding to urgent OH&S situations.

Megan Kheong advises employers in all aspects of employee relations, including the development of workplace policies, Employment Standards compliance, hiring, discipline and termination issues, and human rights compliance and accommodation. She has appeared before all levels of Alberta Courts, and has experience with court applications, hearings, mediation, and all litigation steps.

Not all speakers will present in both locations.
